They often embarrassed their mother by the way they acted in public. It seemed to her that her sons were always arguing.

At the supermarket, the brothers would fight about which cereal she should buy. When they were home they could never agree which movie to watch. Sometimes she doubted that her two boys would ever survive their childhood together.

While they often bickered, the brothers were also fiercely loyal to each other. If another child from the neighborhood made fun of one of them, the other was sure to come to his defense. It baffled their mother!

How could they quarrel so, yet a short time later seek to protect their would-be rival? Blood truly must be thicker than water!

This scenario is a reality for many of us. Sibling rivalry, it seems, is universal. And for the most part, defense of one's own family is equally universal. Playground conversations usually prove this true.

God has another scenario he wants us to follow. He encourages us in the Bible to treat all people as though they were family. "Make every effort to add to your faith ... brotherly kindness" (2 Peter 1:5,7).

There are dozens of things that make each of us different from everyone else in the world. They include where we live, the color of our eyes, our talents, the size of our paycheck, and so on.

Even though we enjoy associating with people who are like us, God wants us to treat everyone the way we would treat an idolized brother or sweet sister. After all, God's love prompted him to send his Son, so that everyone who believes in him has life in his name.

Blood is not always thicker than water. Every person who is made a child of God through his Word and the water of baptism also becomes our brother or sister in Christ. They are family.

Why don't you stop by for a visit at church some weekend and meet some of your spiritual family?

PEACE

Heather Wegner

Peace can be elusive. It may feel at times that peace is an unreachable destination that exists outside the realm of reality. We lead lives full of busyness, stress, and high standards. We experience tragedy, loss, and uncertainty. When we are in the midst of these challenges, where can peace be found?

Perhaps a better question to start with is this: What is peace? We can describe it in many ways. Peace can be thought of as a state of tranquility. It might be considered freedom from anxiety, distraction, or irritation. Peace might mean being content, feeling relaxed, or a experiencing a state of calm. Again, where can peace be found?

The Bible also has something specific to say about the source of peace. In Isaiah, Jesus is called the Prince of Peace. When Jesus was in his three-year ministry, he spoke to his disciples and said, "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled and do not be afraid" (John 14:27). As we approach Easter, we can acknowledge that the true peace that Jesus came here to bring is the knowledge that he repaired our relationship with God by his ultimate sacrifice on the cross. This is the peace that lasts into eternity, and we only get glimpses of it until we reach the fullness of peace in heaven.

The challenge for some is that we are still on earth, so what do we do to have peace in the meantime? God gives us a suggestion through the writing of Paul in Philippians 4:6-7. Paul writes, "Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." Let's break this down a bit.

God wants to soothe our anxiety. He wants us to have peace. He wants to hear what is in our hearts and on our minds, and he wants us to bring it to him in prayer. When we bring our worries, our burdens, and our stressors to him in prayer, we know he hears us and invites us to find rest in him. We can ask him for peace in prayer or seek peace as we meditate on his Word. If you want to practice meditating on God's Word, start with Psalm 46, particularly verse 10, "Be still, and know that I am God," or pick a passage that soothes your heart. Find a comfortable place. Take a deep and slow breath in, and then exhale fully. Focus on your breathing for a minute or two. Read the passage slowly in your mind or out loud. Read it again. Ask yourself, "What is God saying to me here?" "How does this apply to me?" Re-read the passage. Close by thanking our heavenly Father for his faithfulness and grace. Thank him for being the source of peace for your soul.

One of the key elements of this passage from Philippians is a part that I have brushed over in the past. Looking with fresh eyes, I think it might be one of the more important parts: the word thanksgiving. Gratitude. Giving thanks. I just finished reading a book on gratitude, and it taught me a simple truth: We have countless blessings, even on the days when it feels like the world is falling apart. When we have a tough day, or a difficult season in life, we can lose track of the many blessings we have, and highlight all of the parts of our life that are going poorly. This is the robber of peace. No matter how many things are going wrong, there are blessings. Yes, it is healthy to acknowledge and face the difficult and complex emotions and experiences we go through, and face them honestly. I'm not telling you to "silver lining" all of your problems. At the same time, we can acknowledge the blessings we have. I'm going to start, and then I want you to think of your own blessings, and write them down. One good way to do this is to write down one blessing per day, and share it with someone you care about.

My blessings:

- A husband who is loving and supportive
- My body, which is growing a sweet baby
- Parents that love me
- Friends that encourage my faith and well-being
- A church that God uses to feed my soul
- A growth group, where I grow in faith with my friends
- Nieces and nephews that fill me with joy
- A job that fulfills me, and co-workers that support me
- Having enough money to pay bills
- Air in my lungs
- A coat to keep me warm
- The sun that warms the earth and my face
- Laughter
- Doctors that keep me healthy
- Food that nourishes my body

Take time to nourish your souls with Scripture reading, prayer, and gratitude, and trust God to fill your hearts and minds with peace.

Zion's Ladies Society

I guess fall is right around the corner, so it's time to plan our Ladies Aid events.

Our first meeting will be Thursday, September 2nd at 2:00pm in the Fellowship Hall. It would be nice if we had more members. If you know someone that might be interested, please encourage them to come to our meeting. We will be going over this year's schedule and committees. I hope to see both members and new faces.

Messenger Deadline

Please submit your Messenger articles by September 24th.

Hymnal: Christian Worship

As you may have seen in the August WELS Connection, a new hymnal called Christian Worship was released this summer and will be ready for us to implement in our congregation as of January 1. The total expense for our congregation is $7,500. If you would like to contribute to the cost of the project that includes hymnals, musicians resources and electronic support you can mark "Hymnal" on a church envelope with your donation or go to our website's online giving page <http://www.zioncolumbus.org/online-giving> to contribute. You may also order personal copies for $25. Contact our office for more details.

A hymnal is an important confession of faith as it contains worship resources that plainly show what we believe as we gather together to hear the Word, pray, and proclaim God's praises. With up-to date resources, we both connect to our spiritual heritage and reach out to the modern-day worshiper, all for the glory of God in worship. A preview of the hymnal is available for you to look at in our entryway. If you have any questions please speak with either of our pastors or Mary Kluetzman.

Too busy for worship?

Are you too busy for worship?

From the moment we wake until we fall asleep again, we make decisions that reflect our priorities. Some decisions are simple: "Will I brush my teeth this morning?" Others are complex: "Will I re-evaluate my investments?" Some are frivolous: "Will I have white or chocolate milk?" Still, others are more serious: "How do I speak with my child about coming in after curfew last night?"

Daily, we make a myriad of decisions.

One decision we make—more than any other—sets the tone for our week. It is the decision whether to worship.

Many Christians feel like something is "off" when they skip church. And it is! Every day, the devil, the world, and our own sinful flesh beat us up, drag us down, and try to convince us that God could not possibly love us. At times like these, we may be filled with hopelessness and apathy that cause us to go through seemingly meaningless motions.

The church is the place to go, take a deep breath, and be reminded of the truth. There we hear that "God is love" (1 John 4:8) despite our lovelessness toward him. There we are told that "Christ died for our sins" (1 Corinthians 15:3) despite feeling that we can never be forgiven. There we are reminded that "the gift of God is eternal life in Christ" (Romans 6:23) while living in a world that preaches self-righteousness. There we are assured that God grants "salvation to everyone who believes" (Romans 1:16) which gives us the sure hope of heaven.

Jim Grasby is principal of Lakeside Lutheran. Reach him at 920.648.2321 or jgrasby@llhs.org

No one can easily redirect our priorities or force us to be faithful Christians. That is beyond human strength. But, when we hear the gospel weekly and regularly receive Jesus' body and blood, we realize what is the most important thing in life. We are moved to regularly worship with fellow believers to "encourage one another, be of one mind, [and] live in peace" (2 Cor. 13:11) from the forgiveness of sins.

Are you too busy for worship? Nobody should be too busy to worship.

God, give us hearts that seek you first and place you as our highest good. Amen.

Thoughts on the recent synod convention

The format was different, but the purpose and results were unchanged.

The 66th Biennial Convention of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod was held at Luther Preparatory School, Watertown, Wis., on July 26-28. Last January, the potential restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic led the Conference of Presidents to alter the format and location of the convention. The location was moved from Michigan Lutheran Seminary, Saginaw, Mich., to Luther Preparatory School because of the more stringent restrictions existing in Michigan at the time. The format was changed to include about 20 percent of the delegates as in-person delegates, with the remaining delegates participating virtually. Elections and floor committee work was done via videoconference prior to the convention.

All things considered, the convention itself took place without significant problems with communication or participation by the virtual delegates.

The opening worship provided an inspiring start to the convention and focused on the convention theme "Here we stand." The convention theme recalled the 500th anniversary of Martin Luther's bold stance on the Scriptures at the Diet of Worms in 1521. Rev. Joel Voss, second vice president of the synod, preached the sermon.

Some significant items of business that were addressed:

- Rev. James Huebner was reelected to another four-year term as the first vice president of the synod; Rev. Robert Pasbrig was reelected as the synod's recording secretary.
- President Earle Treptow of Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary delivered the convention essay reviewing the significance of Luther's confession and its importance for the church today.
- The convention approved the synod's Ministry Financial Plan, which outlines the financial support for the work of the synod for the next two years. Chief Financial Officer Mr. Kyle Egan also reported that the synod ended last year in very good financial shape in all areas.
- The proposed change in the synod's pension plan from a defined benefit plan to a defined contribution plan was approved and will be implemented on Jan. 1, 2022.
- The convention endorsed an ambitious plan by the Board for Home Missions to open 100 new missions over ten years, beginning in 2023.
- The convention was introduced to the new WELS hymnal and formally adopted it as the synod's hymnal. The new hymnal will be available in early fall.

Many other reports outlined and celebrated the many blessings that God has graciously given to our synod during the past two years and the many opportunities he is giving us for continuing to spread the message of Christ to the world.

The next convention is scheduled to be held at Michigan Lutheran Seminary, Saginaw, Mich., in 2023.

WELS celebrates milestone in endowments program

This year WELS Ministry of Christian Giving and WELS Foundation are celebrating 16 years of God's blessings—and the generosity of God's people—through the WELS endowment funds.

In 2005, synod convention delegates prayerfully considered how WELS could help support gospel ministry in a predictable and ever-increasing manner. One answer was to establish the WELS endowments, which benefit the Lord's work in WELS Home, World, and Joint Missions and at our four ministerial education schools. Out of gratitude for God's love and a desire to help more people know Jesus as their Savior, WELS members have faithfully contributed to these endowments over the last 16 years, resulting in more than $100 million in gifts received ($36.7 million) and expected ($68.9 million).

"We praise Jesus for guiding our synod's plans and prompting our members' gifts so that we're now able to distribute more than $1 million from these endowments for greater tuition assistance for ministerial education students and the funding of mission work to people groups located both in the U.S. and in foreign fields," says Rev. Kurt Lueneburg, director of WELS Ministry of Christian Giving.

In addition to the two synod endowments, WELS Foundation also manages endowments that are set up by individuals, congregations, and other WELS ministries. In total, WELS Foundation distributed $3.5 million to gospel work from more than 350 endowments this year, providing ongoing financial support for gospel work throughout WELS.

One of the endowments managed by WELS Foundation was established by WELS members David and Lynette Buss, longtime supporters of Jesus' work through their local congregation and area Lutheran high school. "We read an article about Martin Luther College in a flyer from WELS," says David, "and we knew we needed to distribute [our blessings] to people in the ministry field." The Busses are helping reduce the burden of tuition costs for students so they can focus on training for the ministry.

The Busses understand that an endowment fund is an ideal way to support MLC students for years to come. "This fund will grow as long as we are on this earth, and it will continue to grow and help hundreds of students in future years," says David.

"An endowment is a great way to create a lasting legacy of Christian faith while carrying out the Lord's work," says Mr. Jim Holm, executive director of WELS Foundation, "and there are a variety of ways to set up an endowment: cash or appreciated assets; or through a will, trust, beneficiary designation on a retirement account, or insurance proceeds."

To learn more about adding to an existing endowment or setting up an endowment for a ministry close to your heart, contact your local WELS Christian giving counselor at wels.net/giving-counselors or call 800-827-5482.

WELS Historical Institute celebrates 40 years

The WELS Historical Institute will be marking 40 years of preserving WELS history at an event Sept. 25, 2021, at Salem, Milwaukee, Wis. Salem Landmark Church, the synod's museum run by the WELS Historical Institute, is located on Salem Lutheran Church's property.

The event, beginning at 1 p.m., will open with a message from WELS President Mark Schroeder. In addition, the event will feature a panel discussion with former WELS Historical Institute presidents; a presentation by Prof. John Brenner, the current editor of the Institute's journal; a cemetery or Salem Landmark Museum tour; a presentation on the history of the Institute; and a hymn sing.

"This event demonstrates our synod's commitment to appreciating the way the Lord has blessed our congregations, schools, and other organizations and used them to promote the gospel of our Lord," says Mr. Dan Nommensen, vice chairman of the WELS Historical Institute. "I pray this event will lead us to see how dedicated volunteers have overseen the process of preserving our past so we can celebrate our blessings and appreciate how the Lord continues to lead us through challenges."

Nommensen says the event is open to "anyone who desires to learn more about our history and how we have sought to preserve and present the story of God's grace in our WELS." The event will be livestreamed. Find out more at wels.net/events.
